COAL CONFERENCE ON WAGE SCALES IN CLEVELAND

Bituminous Operators and U. M. W. Officials Met Today To Form Definite Agreement on Wages.

INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE AND ON CONTRACT APPOINTED

By Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 2—Bituminous operators and officials of the United Mine Workers gathered here today for a conference to arrange future wage scales in accordance with an agreement signed here August 15 which ultimately ended the soft coal strike. The conference is also expected to take up the question of collective bargaining.

By Associated Press

CLEVELAND. Oct. 2.—The agreement provides for the appointment of two committees today, one to investigate the coal industry and the other to formulate a method in negotiating a new contract at another meeting next January. It is understood the mines will insist upon the selection of a joint committee empowered to draft a method of negotiating

Mrs. Price Home This Week.

D K. Price returned today from Louisville where he spent the weekend with Mrs. Price. He reports that she is much better and that she expects to come home the last of this week.

M. H. S. VICTOR IN GAME SATURDAY

Local Football Team Wins Over Junction City 26 to 0 In First Game.

The first football game of the year here, played between Middlesboro High and Junction City High Saturday, resulted in a victory for the local team of 26 to 0. The creditable manner in which the Middlesboro team acquitted itself has caused widely favorable comment, for the individual members of the team and for Coach Porter, who has the boys in training.

Every member of the team played a good game and promise of a splendid season was shown. Homer Griffith as quarter back the last three quarters was perhaps the favorite of the game. This 110-pound football player acts both as an agile and quick minded quarter, and as a dominant factor in putting courage and zest in the players. This is his first year of football. Jimmy Ginsburg, Ben Van Beber, and Charley Marion in the back field and Leo Wardrup at tackle all won favor by their playing.

PINEVILLE PEOPLE PRAISE M. H. S. FOOTBALL PLAYING

PINEVILLE, Oct. 2.—Many Pineville people went over to Middlesboro Saturday afternoon and saw Middlesboro High School defeat Junction City High. Pineville fans are extravagant in their praise of how much Coach Porter has accomplished in so short a time with the M. H. S. football team.

Among those who attended the game were: Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Shipp Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Culton, Mr. and Mrs. White Moss, Miss Bonnie James, W. F. Jones, Handly Gaddie, David Earl, Ray Wood, Abe Isaac, Tom Carnes and Coaches Peterson and Henderson.

FIRST MIDDLESBORO TEACHER HERE FROM JUNCTION CITY SAT.

Supt. E. L. Grubb of the Junction City schools who was here Saturday with the football team, was a pioneer resident of Middlesboro and he had some interesting things to tell about the early days. He left here thirty years ago, he said, and had not been back since. He has been superintendent of Junction City schools ten years.

Superintendent Grubb said his father was the contractor of the Booneway and that he came here as a young man just out of college and earned his first dollars carrying brick for the hotel. The first fall he was here, 1889, he taught the first school in Middlesboro. This was in a room down on the avenue. The next year he taught in the school on Twentieth street. Mr. Grubb's picture hangs in the superintendent's office now, the first teacher in Middlesboro.

YEAGER FAMILY REUNION AT EAGLE BLUFF SPRINGS

The LaFollette Press for last week contains an account of the Yeager family reunion at Eagle Bluff Springs a week ago yesterday. Besides the mother, Mrs. Mary Yeager, who is 72 and makes her home in Jellico with her daughter, Mrs. W. S. Harkness, the following were present: Mr and Mrs. John H. Yeager and three children from Middlesboro; Mr. and Mrs W. S. Harkness. Miss Lola Yeager, Jellico; Mrs. Robert Skillkin, Lebanon, Kansas; Mr. and Mrs. W A. Yeager and daughter. LaFollette The only abesent member was Mrs Martha Smith, a widowed daughter who was kept away on account of ill health.

In the afternoon the party motored to the home of W A Yeager at LaFollette where they were entertained and enjoyed a delightful evening meal together before departing for their various homes Ten years ago the family home was broken by the passing on of their father. David Yeager in Southeastern Kentucky. This branch of the Yeager family consists of two sons, four daughters, fourteen grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

HARROGATE BOY WITH BROKEN NECK IS REPORTED IMPROVING

Herbert Kirby of Harrogate, who sustained a broken neck while in a friendly scuffle with Walter Gather last week, is reported to be getting along very well at the Wilson hospital in Pineville, where he was taken Young Kirby is the son of Mrs J Kirby of Harrogate

The two boys were on their way to Pineville when they decided to wrestle. Gather, being larger than Kirby, threw Kirby away from him and the latter struck on his head, breaking a vertebra close to the head. The boys went on to Pineville where they consulted Dr. Edward Wilson who found Kirby paralyzed.

MIDDLESBORO SCHOOL AMONG FIRST FOURTEEN IN STATE

The Kentucky Educational Directory, published in the periodical, Kentucky School News, put out at Frankfort, ranks Middlesboro schools in the third class, among the first fourteen cities in the state. The classification follows:

First class, Louisville; second class, Covington, Lexington, Newport and Paducah; third class, Ashland, Bowling Green, Corbin, Frankfort, Henderson, Hopkinsville, Maysville, Middlesboro, and Owensboro.

CLAYHOLE ELECTION CASE APPEALS FAILS

Men Convicted in Breathitt County Murders Must Serve Sentences Given.

By Associated Press

FRANKFORT, Oct. 2.—Appeal from judgment in the Clayhole election cases failed in the Court of Appeals today. Four men were killed and a number wounded in this Breathitt county affair for which French, Shade, and Leslie Combs and George Allen, Jr., were given sentences. The appeal makes only the usual allegations.

JIM GODDARD TO GIVE CONCERT HERE

Famous Opera Singer To Be Brought Here By Kiwanis Club October 9

James Goddard, famous opera singer, will give a concert in Middlesboro October 9 for the benefit of the Kiwanis convention fund. Mr. Goddard took an active part in the Kiwanis convention at Knoxville this year and with his singing and friendliness with the Middlesboro delegation helped them to win their fight. He promised, at that time, to come to Middlesboro before he went on another concert tour.

Mr Goddard was born and raised on a farm near Knoxville. He came from a family with natural musical voices and in his early boyhood days was known as the "Boy Wonder." After studying in Chicago a year, he sailed for Paris in 1909 and studied there with Jean de Reszke, famous master. He made his debut in 1911 at Royal Opera, Covent Garden, London. After singing leading bass roles for three seasons, Mr. Goddard was engaged six years with the Imperial Opera of Vienna At the outbreak of the war he was forced to return to America where he was immediately engaged by the Chicago Grand Opera Company and sang leading roles for four seasons.

Mr. Goddard is recognized as one of the leading bass-baritones on the concert and operatic stage today He will sing opera airs and negro melodies at his concert here His accompanist, Frank Mannheimer, is also a remarkable artist, called by many critics the most distinguished young pianist in America.

The prices for seats at this concert will be one dollar, with one dollar and a half for box seats. The ticket sale and management of the concert is in the hands of the public affairs committee of the Kiwanis club

GOT LIQUOR AT OLD POOL ROOM ON ASHBURY AVENUE

M. G. Hollman: who was tried in police court this morning for drunkenness, swore that he got his liquor, three coca cola bottles full of white liquor, at the old pool room on Lothbury avenue, next door west from the Railroad Restaurant. He said he got it from a white man whose name he did not know but whom he believed ran the place as he had a key and unlocked the door.

H Sumner; for the south side will be at the City Barber Shop or the empty Shelburne building, the judges being J H. McGiboney, J E. Evans, Peter Lake and George Vanbeber; for the opera house ward at Callison's with judges M. S. Callison, A. W Oaks, P. T. Colgan and R L. Maddox; for the West End in the McKay building with A. C Carr, T J. Henderson, H. G. Oaks and Robert Lyons as judges.

STORY OF MOUNTAIN LIFE IN PLAY THURSDAY NIGHT

John Fox, Jr., was a master of delineation of mountain characters of the South. His Kentuckians in "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" which in dramatized form comes to the Manring Theatre Monday, October 5. are real people not the fancies of an author's mind. They have their feuds, their strong likes and dislikes, their quaint ideas of chivalry.

The central figure of the play is "Chad," a wanderer, until it is disclosed that he is of excellent blood and has been sought by a wealthy uncle Then there is the girl, Melissy, the sweet, winning maid of the mountains About these two is woven one of the most fascinating love stories conceivable. "The Little Shepherd of Kingdon Come" is filled with delightful characters such as the Major, and the Squire, who are such stirring characters in the story. Great as the book was, and there can be no question on this score, the play is even better.

VENEREAL CLINIC IS REESTABLISHED

Dr. George Hays of Louisville To Be Here First Three Days of Each Week.

Venereal clinics are to be opened again this week in Middlesboro and Pineville, Dr. George Hays of Louisville will be in charge of this work and he is sent here by the state health department to have this in charge.

Dr. Hays will be in Middlesboro Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of each week and in Pineville Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Especial demand for this clinic work has been found since the discontinuance of the county health department. This doctor will have a special time reserved for women and children as he believes they will come for treatment more readily in this way.

The clinic here will be held in the city hall, at the same place which was fitted up for Dr. C C Applewhite of the health department.

EIGHT EASTERN NORMAL STUDENTS FROM BELL CO.

Enrollment at the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School shows a 30 per cent increase in quantity and quality of the student body this year over any previous year. Two-thirds of these students are high school graduates and will be in the college department of the institution. One-third will be in the secondary department. Many of the student are returning to complete the necessary work to secure their life diplomas, while others are here for the first time

These students have enrolled for one semester of twenty weeks, instead of one term of ten weeks as in former years. The elimination of the term enrollment at the beginning of the term plan saves two weeks, one week of enand a week at the end of each term. The next semester will begin February 12 next. The majority of the present student body will remain for the entire year with many others coming in at the beginning of the next semester.

RELIEF WORKER TELLS OF HORRORS FOUND IN SMYRNA

Many Thousands Still in Peril, Doctor Says—Women Pushed Into the Sea Subjected To Soldiers' Insults.

CRIES OF REFUGEES FOR FOOD MEET LAUGHS

By Associated Press

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—"Cries of Christian refugees of Smyrna for water and food met with Turkish laughs," said Dr. Esther Lovejoy of New York, president of the American Woman's Hospital, who has returned here after a survey of the stricken city. She declared the world had not been told the real story of the Smyrna fire and horror. She asserted there are still several hundred thousand Christians in Smyrna and the interior in peril. She said: "Crowds on the quays are so great that some of them are pushed into the sea. Women stand waist-deep in the water holding babies aloft to save them from drowning. At night Turkish soldiers commit excesses against the wome and girls."

FIRST OUTCOME OF ARMISTICE OF TOMORROW

Peril of War Between Great Britain and Turkey Less Menacing—Former's Retreat From Neutral Zone Surprise.

WAS ONLY STEP POSSIBLE TO STAY KEMAL AT THIS TIME

By Associated Press

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—Immediate mutal agreement to suspend all movement of troops is expected here today. This is the first outcome of Mudania armistice conference which will meet tomorrow.

By Associated Press

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—With the armistice conference definitely fixed for tomorrow at Mudania, the peril of war between Great Britain and Turkey appeared less menacing today. Immediate mutual agreement to suspend all movements of troops was expected here today to be the first outcome of the conference. Great Britain's recession from the neutral zone controversy caused no little surprise here, but it is generally admitted this step was the only thing that could have stayed Mustapha Kemal Pasha's hand.

THE NECESSITY OF REGISTERING

Tomorrow is the first Registration Day for the voters of Middlesboro. The other two days on which Middlesboro citizens may register as voters are October 7 and 14. This registration gives citizens the privilege of voting at the November election and the August primaries next year, a privilege which they cannot exercise otherwise.

The women of Middlesboro, not voters for a very long period, should consider their duty as citizens, their responsibility in the government of their city and country, and take this definite step in governmental activity. No man or woman has right to neglect this duty of registering. Our city, state and country are suffering from the bad citizenship of good citizens. We will never have better government than the negligent citizens produce. If voters are indifferent they cannot rightfully criticise city officials for being indifferent. They are in office to do what the majority of citizens demand.

We hear men and women say they are not interested in politics; that they are not politicians. Yet, these very people will complain loudly at high taxes, rough streets, unclean streets, bootlegging and other vices found in most cities. Middlesboro is and will be just the kind of a town the majority of men and women voters are willing to stand for.

Don't be a political slacker. Register next Tuesday. Don't wait for some one to invite you to go to the polls in a car. You don't wait for a friend to invite you to go to a circus, a picture show, the harvest festival. Remember this is your town and you are responsible for its welfare.

NATURE IS LOOKING UP.

Man's instinct for the earth is continually at war with his gregariousness. Just at the present moment when nature is putting on her richest robes, decking herself with her most vivid jewels, dyeing her hair and face and fingers with splendid stains, the mass of human beings, after their summer flirtation with her, are flocking back to their city dens and crowded streets. Probably it was always so. The ancients professed as great an adoration for Nature as we do. They built villas on every point of vantage of hill and seashore; their poets blazed a path to all remarkable scenes; their prophets and hermits and holy men made their sojourns in the deserts or the mountains; but as a steady diet all their peoples preferred the security of walls and the society of the mother. The proper study of mankind is man, not to mention woman.

YOU'D LIKE HIM

New ideas are nearly as scarce as hen's teeth. Once in a while you meet a man with a magnetic temperament, fairly bubbling with striking new ideas. Good company and [illegible] good. You can sit and talk to him by the hour and never get tired.

Such a man is Prof. A. M. Low, England's great wireless expert. Like all nonpareil radio fans, his interest is more in the future than the present. That is, he inclines toward clairvoyant personality.

We present his most striking ideas. "Don't rely on your senses, says Low. "[illegible] are liars. He twirls his cigaret in a circle. That looks to your eyes like a circle of fire, doesn't it? But you know it is not.

The eyes lie. They see incorrectly.

Speech will become unnecessary in the future. And people will converse with each other by some form of suggestion, electrical or otherwise. So predicts Low. He comments:

"After all, if I want to convey a thought to you it seems rather crude that before I can convey my idea that is in my mind I have to waggle my mouth about and puff irregular gusts of wind through my lips to produce sounds."

Senses are so unreliable, says Low, that there are hundreds of colors that no human eye can see. And a dog can hear a whistle of a pitch inaudible to man.

We know a lot of things that aren't so, says Low. For instance, hit an electric light bulb with a hammer and you think the steel comes in contact with the glass and breaks it. Not so. Before the steel reaches the bulb the glass is shattered by the cushion of air compressed and driven in front of the hammer. This is proved by the ultrarapid moving camera, invented by Low.

Low is convinced that there will be many big wars in the future. But the armies, he predicts, will be invisible to one another, never meeting in open contact. Killing will be done by artificial lightning, blasts of terrific heat and wireless-controlled bombs.

Then he switches to music, basic of which is rhythm and says: "Our sense of rhythm comes from the time when we were some form of primitive life on the seashore waiting for the returning tide to give us our food."

Gosh! Pleased to have met you, Mr. Low. Call again!

Bible Thought For To-day

THERE IS NO DISCHARGE—There is no man that hath power over the spirit to retain the spirit; neither hath he power in the day of death, and there is no discharge in that war.—Ecclesiastes 8:8.

THE OPEN FORUM

There are unscrupulous hosiery peddlers going around selling hosiery, telling the public their hosiery is newer and better than that of the local merchants. Now these peddlers sell at a much higher price than the local stores. The test they make in running the sharp edge of a file or knife down the leg of the hose. This test is a fake as the cheapest fibre hose will withstand it.

These hosiery peddlers pay no city license and contribute absolutely nothing to the welfare of the city. The expense of peddling any article from house to house is known to be the most expensive way of selling goods. These smooth-tongued agents take all they can from the town and if their goods is not all they are represented to be you have no comeback because you probably will never see them again.—A Local Merchant.

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM

PROPORTION

BY BERTON BRALEY.

They talk about this "vale of tears"
This world of pain and want and woe
And I'll admit that it appears
At times a pretty tragic show;
And yet, I'm not so sure, I know
How often mortals sob and sigh,
But none the less this, too, is so;
We laugh a lot more than we cry.

For life is full of little jokes
That bring a snicker or a shout
And chuckles far outnumber croaks,
As near as I can figure out;
There's heaps of things to laugh about,
We can't avoid it if we try
So though the world is harsh, no doubt;
We laugh a lot more than we cry

When sorrow comes and bitter grief,
Tears are a balm that soothe the ache
They bring a deep and sure relief
To hearts that otherwise might break
But when we sum up things and take
An average, we can't deny,
In spite of all the kicks we make—
We laugh a lot more than we cry!

THE REFEREE

BY ALBERT APPLE.

Gats

Pistol toting is the curse of America, says Chief Magistrate McAdoo of New York City. "There are more persons who carry pistols in New York and Chicago than in the whole of Europe."

McAdoo declares that the police's greatest problem is the free sale and use of firearms.

Then why not stop the sale, make it a penitentiary offense to possess or carry a revolver? If the penalty were stiff enough, and enforced, it would counteract the householder's disadvantage in not having a pistol for protection. Then, too, the home could keep a rifle or shotgun, weapons which crooks cannot carry concealed.

Deadly

While we Americans live in fear of pistols in the hands of crooks, good citizens of France are alarmed by the discovery that anyone over there can purchase a tube of typhoid or diphtheria germs. For 20 cents, enough microbes to kill hundreds.

The possibilities are enough to make one's hair stand on end. "Gentleman Girard," who died in Paris prison a year ago, was accused of murdering people with germs after insuring them heavily. You will see this duplicated one of these days on our side of the ocean.

Canada

American tourists this year take $100,000,000 to Canada and leave it, according to Jack Canuck's government authorities.

The Canadian Rockies are pulling visitors as strongly as ever. But the big jump in tourist trafic is in and near Quebec and Montreal, where liquor flows freely. It is not impossible that prohibition in the United States will wind up by the wets migrating northward for good. At any rate, the Yankee thirst will help pay off Canada's debt.

Movies

A new process for making moving pictures in all colors of the rainbow is being financed by William Hamlin Childs, big man in the dye industry. He uses a new process, one film pasted over another, in two layers.

The cost is said to be just about double that of the black-and-white film, but film cost is only a fraction of the expense of making and marketing a movie.

Within 10 years the colored movie will be in general use and black-and-whites will be used only for artistic effects.

Fog

Autumn brings fogs. Dr. W. J. Humphreys of the weather bureau in Washington says a dense fog in a space 3 by 5 feet by 100 feet contains 60 trillion particles of moisture, yet these condensed would make only one gulp of water.

Most problems are like fogs—look bigger than they really are. Determination and courage will condense them.

Incidentally, a cubic inch of dense fog contains 20,000 particles of moisture.

HOT LUNCHES FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

Lexington, Oct. 2.—With the opening of schools throughout Kentucky and the prospect of cold weather in the near future, the problem of the noon-day lunch for children in rural schools again has come to the front as an important one that demands attention, according to Miss Maybelle Cornell, head of the home economic department of the College of Agriculture. That this problem is receiving due consideration in many parts of the state is shown by the fact that a considerable number of schools are serving at least one hot dish to supplement the cold lunch brought by the children. However, the serious need of the hot lunch is realized by comparatively few persons.

"Under average conditions, rural school children in Kentucky follow a daily program that makes it necessary for them to get along on little more than two meals a day. As a rule they have breakfast at about 6 o'clock in the morning and by recess time they are hungry enough to eat most of the lunch which they have brought from home. What may be left after recess is insufficient for the noon lunch with one result that they go home hungry about 4 o'clock to eat another lunch that leaves them without any appetite for the evening meal. No man is willing to work on less than three full meals a day. School children, therefore who are growing and studying can hardly be expected to do their best work on two meals a day.

"Perhaps the first requirement for starting a hot school lunch in any school is an active organization of persons interested in the welfare of the children that can superintend the project. This may be a parent-teachers' association, a community club or a group of farm women. The teacher of the school should naturally be a supporter of the project since she should be interested enough in her pupils to see that they are kept fit physically.

"Complete details dealing with the starting of a hot school lunch, financing the project, the equipment necessary, 15 suggested lunches and more than a score of recipes are given in extension circular No. 95, which may be had free by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington."

BRUISES CONTUSIONS

By Dr. R. H. Bishop

A contusion is a blow to any part of the body without piercing the skin. Some contusions are of slight importance, others are serious.

The little boy who falls down stairs and bumps his head has a contusion. It turns black and blue because the force of the blow broke blood vessels beneath the skin. If, however, it is a severe contusion of the legs, parts protected by a great deal of muscle, you will not get the results just mentioned, so far as outward appearance is concerned.

Bruises, however, develop and become black and blue later on. A person may accidentally be hit in the leg and go on for several weeks and consider the injury as nothing very serious. But such a person may die because the small blood vessels, not the big ones, got broken, formed a hematoid condition, as infection of the blood.

You may have seen someone who has injured his finger by a hard blow. And later you may see the same person without that particular finger or finger tip. The injury may develop a felon, not so large at first, but with later serious effects.

In the case of a contusion to the head, there may be a severe jar or partly broken bone. Semi-consciousness or unconsciousness sometimes follows. If you are aware of having had a blow of one kind, though no serious results immediately followed, don't neglect it until too late.

The young lady who spent all summer tanning her hide spends all fall hiding her tan.

William Hammond sought an anteater in New Jersey. An anteater is not a man on a picnic.

Your luck may be bad, but Walter Socolow has two states arguing which shall hang him.

EPISODE ONE
Eve
CHAPTER I

During the last two years Fate, Chance and Destiny had been too busy to attend to Mike Clinch.

But now his turn was coming in the Eternal Sequence of things. The stars in their courses indicated the beginning of the undoing of Mike Clinch.

From Esthonia a refugee Countess wrote to James Darragh in New York:

"—After two years we have discovered that it was Jose Quintana's band of international thieves that robbed Ricca. Quintana has disappeared.

"A Levantine diamond broker in New York, named Emanuel Sard, may be in communication with him.

"Ricca and I are going to America as soon as possible.

"Valentine."

The day Darragh received the letter he started to look up Sard.

But that very morning Sard had received a curious letter from Rotterdam This was the letter:

"Sardius — Tourmaline — Aragonite — Rhodonite * Porphyry — Obsidian — Nugget Gold — Diaspore * Novaculite * Yu * Nugget Silver — Amber — Matrix Turquois Elaeolite * Ivory — Sardonyx * Moonstone — Iceland Spar — Kalpa Zircon — Eye Agate * Celonite — Lapis — Iolite — Nephrite — Chalcedony — Hydrolite * Hegolite — Amethyst — Selnite * Fire Opal — Labradorite — Aquamarine — Malachite — Iris Stone — Natrolite — Garnet * Jade — Emerald — Wood Opal Essonite — Lazuli * Epidote — Ruby Onyx — Sapphire — Indicolite — Topaz — Euclase * Indian Diamond * Star Sapphire — African Diamond — Iceland Spar — Lapis Crucifer * Abaloue — Turkish Turquoise * Old Mine Stone — Natrolite — Cats Eye — Electrum * * * 1-5 a a."

That afternoon young Darragh located Sard's office and presented himself as a customer. The weasel-faced clerk behind the wicket laid a pistol handy and informed Darragh that Mr. Sard was away on a business trip

Darragh looked cautiously around the small office:

"I have important news concerning Jose Quintana." whispered Darragh; "Where is Sard?"

"Why, he had a letter from Quintana this very morning" replied the clerk in a low, uneasy voice. "Mr. Sard left for Albany on the one o'clock train. Is there any trouble?"

Darragh bored him through with his dark stare.

"Mind your business," he said.

That night in Albany Darragh picked up Sard's trail. It led to a dealer in automobiles. Sard had bought a Comet Six, paying cash, and he had started north.

Through Schenectady, Fonda, and Mayfield, the following day, Darragh traced a brand new Comet Six containing one short dark Levantine with a parrot nose. In Northville Darragh hired a Ford.

At Lake Pleasant Sard's car went wrong. Darragh missed him by ten minutes; but he learned that Sard had inquired the way to Ghost Lake Inn.

That was sufficient. Darragh bought an axe, drove as far as Harrod's Corners, dismissed the Ford and walked into a forest entirely familiar to him.

He emerged in half an hour on a wood road two miles farther on Here he felled a tree across the road and sat down in the bushes to await events.

Toward sunset, hearing a car coming, he tied his handkerchief over his face below the eyes, and took an automatic from his pocket.

Sard's car stopped and Sard got out to inspect the obstruction. Darragh sauntered out of the bushes and poked his pistol against Mr. Sard's fat abdomen, and leisurely and thoroughly robbed him

In an agreeable spot near a brook rragh lighted his pipe and sat him n to examine the booty in detail. pistols, a stiletto and a blackjack composed the arsenal of Mr. Sard. A large wallet disclosed more than four thousand dollars in Treasury notes—something to reimburse Ricca when she arrived, he thought.

Among Sard's possessions he discovered a cipher letter from Rotterdam —probably from Quintana. Cipher was rather in Darragh's line.

But Quintana's cipher proved to be only an easy acrostic—the very simplest of secret messages. Within an hour Darragh had it penciled out:

Cipher

"Take notice:

"Star Pond, N. Y. . . Name is Mike Clinch . . Has Flaming Jewel . . Erosite . .
I sail at once.

"Quintana."

Having served in Russia as an officer in the Military Intelligence Department of the American Expeditionary Forces, Darragh had little trouble with Quintana's letter. Even the signature was not difficult, the fraction 1-5 was easily translated to Quint; and the familiar prescription symbol a a spelled ana; which gave Quintana's name in full.

He had heard of Erosite as the rarest and most magnificent of all gems. Only three were known. The young Duchess Theodorica of Esthonia had possessed one

Darragh was immensely amused to find that the chase after Emanuel Sard should have led him to the very borders of the great Harrod estate in the Adirondacks, which now was the property of Harrod's nephew, James Darragh.

When he came to the first trespass notice he stood a moment to read it Then, slowly, he turned and looked toward Clinch's.

Fate, Destiny and Chance were becoming very busy with Mike Clinch They had started Quintana, Sard and Darragh on his trail. Now they stirred up the sovereign State of New York.

CHAPTER II

Two State Troopers drew bridles in the yellowing October forest.

Trooper Lannis said to Trooper Stormont: "That's Mike Clinch's clearing Our man may be there. Now we'll see if anybody tips him off this time."

Stormont nodded.

"All the scum of the wilderness gathers here," went on Lannis "Here is where half the trouble in the North Woods hatches. We will eat dinner at Clinch's. His stepdaughter is a peach"

The sturdy, sun-browned trooper glanced at his wrist watch, stretched his legs in his stirrups.

"Jack," he said, "I want you to get Clinch right, and I'm going to tell you about his outfit while we watch this road It's like a movie. Clinch plays the lead. I'll dope out the scenario for you—"

"Way back around 1900 Mike Clinch was a guide—a decent young fellow they say.

"About that time there came to Clinch's hotel a Mr. and Mrs. Strayer They were lungers. Strayer seemed to be a gentleman; his wife was good looking and rather common Both were very young. He had the consump bad—the galloping variety. He didn't last long A month after he died his young wife had a baby, and Clinch married her. She also died the same year The baby's name was Eve Clinch became quite crazy about her and started to make a lady of her That was his mania."

"Clinch had plenty of money in those days," he went on. "He could afford to educate the child. The kid had a governess. Then he sent her to a fancy boarding school. She had everything a young girl could want

"She developed into a pretty young thing at 15. She's 18 now—and I don't know what to call her. She pulled a gun on me in July"

"What!"

"Sure There was a row at Clinch's dump. A rum-runner called Jake Flonn got shot up. I came up to get Clinch He was sick-drunk in his bunk When I broke in the door Eve Strayer pulled a gun on me"

What happened?" inquired Stormont.

"Nothing. I took Clinch. But he got off as usual"

"Acquitted?"

Lannis nodded, rolling another cigaret.

"Now, I'll tell you how Clinch happened to go wrong," he said. "You see he had always made his living by guiding. Well, some years ago Henry Harrod of Boston came here and he bought thousands and thousands of acres of forest all around Clinch's That meant ruin to Clinch. He was walled in No hunters care to be restricted Business stopped. His stepdaughter's education became expensive. He was in a bad way. Harrod offered him a big price. But Clinch turned ugly and would not even budge. And that's how Clinch began to go wrong"

Stormont nodded

"Well Clinch found money many ways. The Conservation Commissioner in Albany began to hear about game law violations The Revenue people heard of rum-running. Clinch lost his guide's license. But nobody could get the goods on him

"Then the war came and the girl volunteered. She got to France somehow Clinch wanted to be on the same side of the world she was on and he went with a Forestry Regiment and cut trees for railroad ties in southern France until the war ended and they sent him home.

"Eve Strayer came back too She's there now. You'll see her at dinner time"

Lannis finished his second cigaret, got back into his stirrups, gathering bridle, began leisurely to divide curb and snaffle.

"That's the layout, Jack" he said. "Yonder lies the Red Light district of the North Woods Mike Clinch is the brains of all the dirty work that goes on. A floating population of crooks and bums—game violators, bootleggers. And there's the girl, Eve Strayer."

OIL BOOM MAY RIVAL DAYS OF 49

By Associated Press.

Anchorage, Alaska. Sept. 8—Announcement that big oil interests will soon start drilling for oil in the Gold Bay district of Alaska promises to bring the thrilling scenes of gold rush day to life again, according to men who have visited the new fields recently For this new oil country, say those who know something of the hard ships attendant upon a stampede, is probably more rigorous than the wind swept stretches surrounding Cape Nome.

The Barrens at Cold Bay offer no shelter against the sweep of the wind, and the absence of fuel, save beach wood and parafine, will add to the sufferings of the prospectors who plan to invade the country.

The uninviting prospect, however. will not hold back the adventurers, for already regular steamers and launches plying between Seward and Kodiak are booked to capacity weeks ahead. Of these the men entering from Alaska will have the advantage of being outfitted for an indefinite stay and already hardened to the rigors of the northern winter

Rival interests have been shipping lumber and supplies to the district for some time and the erection of mushroom towns is expected to soon take place at several designated sites Many of the promoters, according to those on the ground are merely there to make their stake out of the general conditions surrounding the boom. Of this others who are joining the rush, some are only going in for the adventure, while a few will seriously attempt the exploitation of the resources presumed to be there. The announcement has served to stimulate interest in other parts of the territory and efforts are being made to attract atteniton to discoveries made in the Anchorage and Susitana Valleys.

Home

A wee little house on a shabby street
Tiny, old brown but cozy and neat
Doors and windows all shiny clean
Shadowy corners each with its dream sunny parlor in ruffled net
With its blooming posy, its singing pet
A tiny kitchen all white and sweet
With its odors of something good to eat
A battered box on the parlor floor
Wee finger prints on window and door
Two big boy feet and a smaller pair
Clattering up and down the stair
A noisy voice and a softer one
Telling tales of the day's great fun
A melody flung to the twilight sky
Mother voice singing a lullaby
A pipe and a book in the dim twilight
Where a dog tired man comes home at night
All things answer the homing call,
Where the spirit of love broods over all,
And hearts beat high and life is sweet

Marriage A La Mode

We give medals to heroes but at one time in France it was the custom to give medals to all guests at a wedding ceremony

They were specially designed for the occasion and frequently bore a tiny bronze image of the bride

Pay weddings are still the custom in parts of Germany At the dinner table a silver basin is placed before the bride into which each guest drops money or jewelry

GRAY HAIR BECOMES DARK AND BEAUTIFUL

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur properly compounded brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded streaked or gray Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home which is mussy and troublesome

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at very little cost Everybody uses this preparation now because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair as it does it so naturally and evenly You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair taking one small strand at a time by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark thick and glossy and you look years younger Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite It is not intended for the cure mitigation or prevention of disease

TRIFLING TRAVELOGS

ARA There's Plenty Water Power, Honeymooners, Wet Spray

Porterfield

Falls, unlike some lovely n tremendous people, never fails arm, to delight, to fascinate, to aud one's thought.

"There is not the slightest proof of immortality of the soul," says the materialist. "To hold the theory of continuous identity of the soul is absurd, for Nature is utterly wasteful, careless of results, destructive to the last degree."

Thus, a short century ago, might the greatest scientist have argued, standing upon the precipe of Niagara.

Today we realize dimly, something of the possibilities of power pent up there—power to change the material world in which we live. Up to date perhaps 750,000 hydro-electric horsepower has been taken from Niagara to help do the work of the world.

This is but a fraction of what will one day be taken from the whirlpool below the falls, say engineers. In fact no one can even dare to estimate the power which may be developed within 10 miles of Niagara.

But power is the smallest part of Niagara's value to the world. In her class, Niagara is without a rival in beauty of setting, in impressiveness, and above all in accessibility.

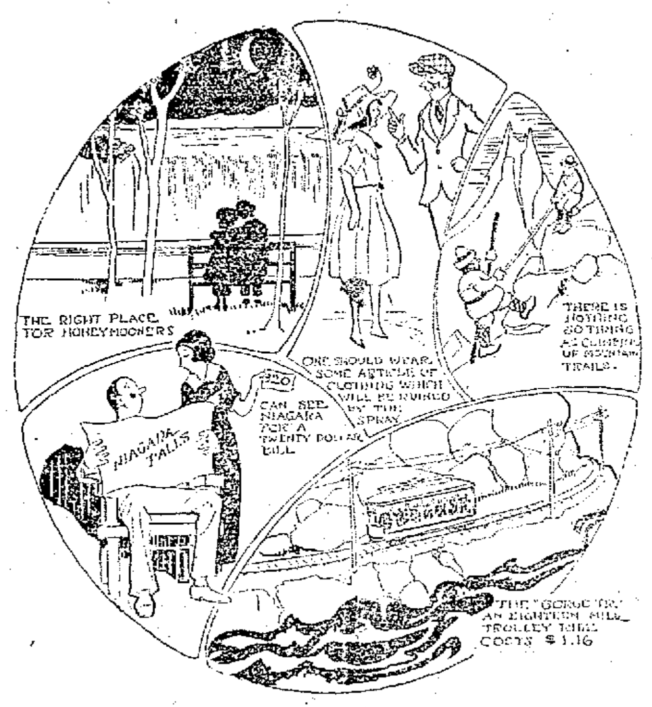
Disclaiming any desire to draw odious comparisons, it is of course, perfectly true that one should see Niagara FIRST before viewing the terrific cataracts of the Sierras and of course, for sheer grandeur and awe-inspiring beauty, there are probably a hundred chasms of the west in which the whole of Niagara could be dumped in safety, but Niagara is today, has been for a century, and probably always will be the mecca of the modest.

It costs money to go to Yosemite: lots of it to go there, and more to stay. It costs more to go to Yellowstone or Ranier or Zion park or the Grand Canyon, and unless your feet are sound, your heart in good working condition, and your physical condition satisfactory, you are going to leave any of these places in a worse condition than you went. There is nothing so stirring as climbing up mountain trails—except the climbing down.

But to see Niagara, for 50 million people, or half of our total population it merely requires one night on the sleeper, a $20 bill for railroad fare and all necessary expenses and the job is done.

I wonder a hundred thousand honeymooners are said to visit Niagara every year Why not? Given the right girl and an August moon, a box of weenies, and a couple of ice-cream cones, car fare in your pocket and a job when you get home, and I don't know of any better way to spend an evening than on a bench in Prospect Park overlooking the American falls.

Of course, if the night be hot — the ideal arrangement is to cross over the international bridge to the Canadian side, walk up to the nearest point opposite the Horseshoe Falls which at this time of the year are much larger and grander than the American falls, and just let the spray come tumbling over you till you are wet as you were in the ocean.



THE RIGHT PLACE FOR HONEYMOONERS
ONE SHOULD WEAR SOME ARTICLE OF CLOTHING WHICH WILL BE RUINED BY THE SPRAY
THERE IS NOTHING SO TIRING AS CLIMBING OF MOUNTAIN TRAILS
NIAGARA FALLS
1920
CAN SEE NIAGARA FOR A TWENTY DOLLAR BILL
THE "GORGE TRIP" AN EIGHTEEN MILE TROLLEY TRIP COSTS $1.16

For folks who have never grown up—which includes some of us, I recommend an experience of that sort of superlatively delightful.

To add to the pleasure of the thing, one should wear some articles of clothing which will be ruined by the spray. There's a thrill in the realization that one is deliberately ruining something of value, which I suppose is a legacy from that far-fetched time when the bride of the first Pilltdown cave man smashed the first earthen pot over her lord and master's head when he stayed out too late the night before.

One may spend a lot of money at Niagara, but I know of no other place where money will buy so little as here. Aside from the Niagara beltline or so called gorge trip, an 18-mile trolley ride which costs $1.16, I cannot honestly recommend the expenditure of one cent as absolutely necessary to the fullest enjoyment of the world's great playground.

Half a day should be made for this trolley trip, and stops should be make everywhere. Cars run every half hour and stop-overs are allowed at all points. First stop on the Canadian side where you can get the finest view of the falls.

THE KU KLUX KLAN IS TEXAS ISSUE

Fort Worth, Texas, Oct. 2—The Ku Klux Klan issue has wiped out party lines in Texas and has set the stage for the bitterest campaigns in years.

And for the first time in history of Texas, a Democratic candidate for the United States Senate will have real opposition when the elections are held.

George E. B. Peddy, a 31 year old lawyer of Houston fusion candidate of anti-Klan Democrats and of Republicans, is opposing Earle M. Mayfield, nominated by Democrats for the United States Senate after a primary in which Klanism was the issue. Mayfield never intimated in any way that he was pro-Klan, but letters bearing the signature of A. D. Ellis, grand dragon of the Klan, urging his nomination, were sent broadcast over the state, urging members to support Mayfield. These letters declared the candidate's membership in the Klan.

Opposing Mayfield in the primary was James E. Ferguson, former governor. Ferguson had been impeached while governor and indicted for misapplication of state funds. Also two years ago Ferguson left the Democratic party to form the American party. These things were sufficient to cause the loss of many anti-Klan votes which will now support Peddy, say the fusion managers.

Peddy is receiving support from Cullen F. Thomas, Clarence Ousley, and Senator C. A. Culberson, three candidates in the first primary. His manager is Colonel Henry L. Lindsley of Dallas, past national commander of the American Legion.

A few sidelights on the campaign:

While Peddy was at the state university he led a student demonstration against Ferguson. Ferguson came back by voting against appropriations for the university. This led to Ferguson's impeachment. But—

When Ferguson opposed Mayfield in the primaries, Peddy lent his full support to Ferguson—

And now Ferguson in appearing in behalf of Peddy.

Reports are being circulated that should Mayfield be elected, the senate will refuse him a seat on account of his alleged Klan affiliations.

Opponents of Peddy have carried the fight to the state attorney general claiming his candidacy is illegal as Democrats and Republicans are violating election laws in endorsing the same candidate. They urge this particularly as many of the Democrats voted at the two primaries.

Mayfield based his primary campaign on the prohibition issue, but Peddy is conducting his fight entirely on Klanism. Nor does he spare the organization in his speeches. He accuses it of playing politics after its leaders declared the organization never took part in politics and also as "an organization which started as the secret censor of the morals of the country, but it is now a preacher of racial and religious hatred."

AMERICAN BANKERS MEET IN NEW YORK

By Associated Press

New York, Oct. 2—Seven thousand representative bankers from all over the United States will gather here tomorrow at the opening of the 48th annual meeting of the American Bankers Association.

The gigantic machinery necessary to handle so great a gathering has been under way for months with 100 hotels, 30 local bank employes, and a committee of 100 prominent bankers operating. The meeting is the first to be held by the association in New York for 17 years, and in addition to matters of a strictly business nature, adequate entertainment has been provided for the visitors, including private fashion shows and shopping tours for women guests.

Notable among the speakers who will place first hand information in regard to the financial problems of the world, is the Right Honorable Reginald Mc- NINE .... ...... ..... .. Kenna, chairman of the London Joint City, and Midland Bank and former chancellor of the British Exchequor. Mr. McKenna is known as one of the chief figures in European finance, and his addresses on inter-allied debts, reparations, and the other problems that baffle Europe are of international interest.

Thomas W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan and Company, who recently returned from the financial conference in Paris, and who has been active in studying American financial affairs in Europe, Mexico and China, will also address the bankers.

Financial problems purely local to the United States will not be overlooked in the work of the delagtes. But because of the intricate relationship of our affairs with Europe, it is expected that the larger phase of international conditions will be the keynote of the convention work. In banking and financial circles, the convention is considered the most important business conference of the year.

ONE CHANCE IN A THOUSAND TO BECOME GREAT

By Roy Gibbons

Chicago, Oct 2—For 22 years Albert Nelson Marquis and his faithful blue pencil have kept company in the editorial offices of the publication Who's Who in America here, of which he is editor, publisher and the founder presiding over the hopes of the country's great and near great.

Today after two decades of close observation, Marquis has come to the conclusion that there is no short cut to fame, but that glory goes only to him who works and waits.

That's it he said with a cheery smile, renown is merely the reward of long perseverance and consistent accomplishment. Luck — I don't believe in it—and if there is such a thing it enters only remotely into the possibility of any man's chance of becoming famous.

The current edition of Who's Who which is published biennially contains some 25,000 sketches or boiled down biographies of the nation's conspicuous citizens who have achieved success in a particular field or have been elected or appointed to high federal or state office.

From statistics he has compiled Marquis estimates that the chance of anyone becoming great is but one out of every 1000 of male population.

He also says that the ration of eminence is greater in men who have passed their sixtieth birthday, and in women who have rounded the half century mark.

As soon as a person dies his name is removed from Who's Who. And the proud cognomens of officeholders are also given a funeral when the people who bear them pass into private life as the wheel of political fortune turns over.

No one who knows Marquis envies him his job. Each day he is called upon to placate scores of people who write demanding apologies, explanations and invitations to duels—with his own choice of weapons—for having omitted their names.

Why haven't you got me in there?' demands one man. I'm alderman from the Tenth Ward and I bought a copy of your book on purpose expecting to find you had at least given me honorable mention.

Another writer, a woman and the mother of two sons, sent in a long sketch of the oldest boy to Marquis pointing out that Who's Who would lose a valuable contribution if the article wasn't published.

Billy" as she called him has just been elected captain of the high school football team and you'll simply have to put him in your book'.

I get thousands of such communications,' Marquis says, and of course I can't print them. All our material is prepared from first hand information supplied through questionnaires sent out of our own offices.

We seldom use a voluntary biography. And even those that we request often come in replete with high sounding phrases such as I am one of the best known men in —— city. My family has the largest collection of silverplate in the county.

Naturally we don't print panegyrics such as that either but set the blue pencil to work and start boiling down.'

Marquis thinks that men are just as egotistical as women when it comes to talking about themselves.

He is also confident that equal suffrage and the growing tendency of the women to march more into the affairs of things will greatly aid them in bridging the disparity which has always existed between them and men in the number of figures before the public eye.

Requisites for admission of any name into Whos Who, Marquis says include creditable personal endeavor in a recognized field of effort or else in acknowledge and conspicuous place in a prominent office.

In the first class are artists, writers, singers, lecturers, philanthropists and business executives. In the second grouping automatically go the name of army and navy officers over a certain rank.

Ambassadors to foreign countries and members of the consular service assigned to important ports are also included as are foreign singers and artists who make regular visits to America and high government officer.

Investigators working under Marquis are constantly on the lookout for new names to add to the long list of famous ones. They are employed to read scientific papers and other manuscripts to give them leads.

In brief to get into Who's Who' as Marquis puts it, you first must have attracted the favorable attention of the public along some worthy line. There is no bar to age, religion or race. And money won't buy your way in. Marquis has turned down scores of bribes.

One of the most remarkable facts to be gained by a perusal of Who's Who is that men over 90 have tied youths between 20 and 30 in the pursuit of glory.

Other figures taken from the work indicate that the majority of people who have made good—or become famous—leave their home town and native state soon after doing so and migrate elsewhere—usually to New York.

Which might be taken, Marquis says, as a revision of the old adage that a town is without honor to its own prophet.

More than 72 per cent of all names listed in the [illegible] activities which Marquis [illegible] higher [illegible]

CENSORSHIP IDEA IS LOSING GROUND

A New York magistrate dismissed a case worked up against a New York publisher by a society devoted to trying to make other peoples' morals conform to the society's standard. The society's agents haled the publisher into court, along with several of his books on a charge of publishing obscene literature. The magistrate read the books, threw the case out of court, commended the books as contributions to literature and knowledge, and scored the agents for the self constituted moral censorship and ended by insisting on the reality of the principle of the right of free speech when such free speech is within the laws of the land.

The New York Stage has just formulated a plan by which the evils of police censorship over plays is eliminated while permitting judgment as to what is and what is not objectionable to the public by the public. According to this plan any person objecting to any part of any play on moral grounds may state his or her case to John M Gilchrist commissioner of licenses and cause the appointment of a jury of twelve months [illegible] men and women to pass upon the show.

The jury panel will include 300 names of persons not interested in the theatre or in reform.

In event of a complaint a jury of twelve is to be dispatched to see the production. A vote of nine to three is required to carry a verdict. But even an adverse verdict will not be final for the producers and authors of the offending play will then be invited to reform the production wherein it is found to be offensive.

CHILDREN'S OPERETTA SATURDAY WAS WELL RECEIVED

The operetta Under the Sugar Plum Tree given Saturday afternoon under the auspices of Blue Bird Troop No 2 Girl Scouts, at the Manring Theatre was a clever little entertainment worthy of considerable mention. It was directed by the captain of the troop Mrs J I Gibson who was assisted by Miss Minnie Foley. Miss Bertha Hoe was pianist. It was short and entertaining from beginning to end, the fruit of earnest efforts given by the directors and cooperation of the cast.

Those who took principal parts were Elizabeth Clellan, Elizabeth Brosheer, Julia Forrester, Carolyn Joyeux, Julian Arent, Graham Short, Jack Bellah, Graham Chadwick, Malcolm Caskey and Francis Bristow. Fifty children made up the cast.
